

Middle Georgia Justice Self-Help Center User Agreement

This agreement (the "Agreement") is made between _____ ("User") and Middle Georgia Access to Justice Council, Inc. ("MGJ"). The Agreement governs the terms and conditions of User's use of MGJ's Self-Help Center (the "Center") and contains the entirety of the rights and obligations of User and MGJ as it concerns the use of the Center.

In exchange for use of the Center, User agrees to pay, and MGJ agrees to accept, a non-refundable fee of $25 for each use of the Center, on the day and at the time scheduled for User's use of the Center. MGJ will also provide limited, non-legal assistance in completing forms selected by User. This fee does not include Court fees or costs.

It is expressly recognized, understood, and agreed that this Agreement DOES NOT create an attorney-client relationship between User and MGJ and/or any employee or volunteer associated with MGJ. User understands that MGJ will not be providing User with legal representation or advice to User. Legal advice and/or representation can only be given to User upon the execution, by User, of a retainer agreement, separate, apart, and in addition to this Agreement.

MGJ can only provide self-help services at the specific direction of User. MGJ will not select legal forms or give legal or tax advice. Services are provided at User's request and are not a substitute for the advice of a lawyer. Because legal needs vary from individual to individual, User should seek the advice of a trained professional if User has questions regarding the selection of appropriate forms or the completion of such forms.

MGJ is not responsible for filing any legal forms with a court. Upon completion of a form or forms by User at the Center, it becomes the responsibility of User to file those forms with the appropriate court, and to pay any necessary fees associated with filing said form(s) or request that the court waive the fees.
